A shop girl of New York's "Little Ireland", Mazie by name, dashes into a street fight to aid a young man in dress clothes. Though badly beaten, he bears a strong resemblance to Lord Lytton, the hero of a story in "Sloppy Stories" which Mazie is avidly reading by instalments. The young man turns out to be a soda clerk - but he looks like Lord Lytton would anyway - so Mazie permits his attentions and together they read the "Sloppy Stories" yarn of English nobility. When her beau is arrested as a counterfeiter, Mazie turns to the latest episode of the tale for advice and through this step of ending to their own love epic is achieved. It is fine romance, with common interest and a flavoring of subtle satire.
